LOTTERIES, GAMES OF CHANCE DEBATED IN THE LEGISLATURE

On the questions from members of the legislature concerning lotteries and other games of chance, Premier Manning Monday told the members that he agreed with many of their complaints but pointing out that the responsibility lies not with his government but with the federal parliament which passed the gambling sections of the Criminal Code.

Ernest Watkins (PC-Calgary Glenmore) asked whether police forces are given any guidance or instructions on how to handle lotteries and games of chance.

The answer was no, but Mr. Manning said police would not be instructed to shut their eyes to any violations of the laws. The department attempts to be fair, he said, and in the vast majority of cases charges are laid as results of complaints received from citizens.

Michael Maccagno, Liberal, Lac la Biche, observed that he could not see why police officers should have to shut their eyes. That it was difficult to understand why games of chance that are allowed on the exhibitions, midways of the cities of Calgary and Edmonton are not permitted elsewhere.

Why must we be obliged to break some existing law every time we hold Sunday picnics during the summer months. Sunday ball games. Sunday shows? "It appears to me," he said, "that reasonable consideration should be given by the government in order that charitable and religious organizations could hold these affairs without having to break the law."

"I agree, but you are talking to the wrong people," said Premier Manning and after the discussion had gone on a few minutes more: "Only parliament can change laws."

He found it ridiculous that games of chance on exhibition midways are legal because they are run in support of agricultural fairs, while the same games held elsewhere are illegal.

In speaking to Mr. Maccagno later, he said that in view of what the premier had said, he intended to propose a motion requesting the government of Canada be urged to permit bona-fide charitable or religious organizations to charge admission to concerts, shows, picnics, entertainment and sporting events sponsored by them, for the purpose of raising money for religious or charitable purposes.

Chimney Fire Extinguished By Fire Engine

A few minutes after 10 a.m. March 10, the Lac la Biche fire engine was called to extinguish a chimney fire at the residence of Henry Alberts. The alarm was not sounded, and only a small part of the brigade attended the fire.

Under the direction of Assistant Chief Jack Williams and Engineer Bob Rudiger the fire was soon under control.

March is the month when chimney fires are most common, and this should be a reminder to others to have chimneys inspected.

Able Presentation Given Alberta Legislature In Speech Last Week

By Ken Larson

The Alberta government expressed itself as being favorable to a development road leading from McMurray to Lac la Biche following a resolution introduced in the legislature by Michael Maccagno, Liberal MLA for Lac la Biche constituency, which asked for the building of an all-weather secondary highway.

In his 17-page report supporting his motion, Mr. Maccagno noted that the proposed highway would reach the southern limits of the tar sands area, which have a potential oil reserve estimated to 300 billion barrels of oil.

Exploration of oil and gas is continuing, Mr. Maccagno pointed out, noting that the Northern Development Commission Report shows a known gas field of potential size north and east of the town of Lac la Biche. He said a permit to construct a transmission line by the Northern Alberta Pipeline Limited has been applied for, and an application has been made for another pipeline from the Chard area.

Mr. Maccagno, speaking to the resolution, said there are six possible power sites on the Athabasca in the general area that will be served by this proposed highway.

He said there are two fuels available for Thermal Power in northern Alberta: liquid coke in the area around McMurray and natural gas. This means that Thermal Power in unlimited quantities could be generated in large steam plants located near the oil sands.

It is difficult, Mr. Maccagno told the house, to understand the federal government's refusal to accept this roadway in their "roads to resources" federal grants program that was introduced, especially when one considers the ready availability of hydro power estimated at some 1,600,000 h.p. all located in the general area of the highway... when one considers the timber potential... the fishing, the mining... the oil and gas and oil sands... the tremendous appeal to the tourists this area provides.

However, commencement of this important road should not be abandoned on this account. Work could be commenced under the winter works program as a great deal of clearing I believe is yet to be done preliminary to construction as well as required surveys I am sure.

Mr. Speaker, the mill at 137 known as Imperial Mills is no all located in the general area of longer in operation. Some fifty men formerly employed by this plant are presently out of work and anxiously seeking jobs.

There are a large number of unemployed at McMurray awaiting the spring break-up when water transportation is once again in full swing. All these people would be grateful indeed for the opportunity of winter employment.

Add to this the renewed hope and confidence that will be given the residents of McMurray and the Lac la Biche districts and I believe you will agree with me that this project is deserving of every consideration.

There are many other advantages offered by the said highway as proposed. Once it joins Highway
No. 46, one may travel east to the town of Lac la Biche and then south to join Highway 28 which will soon be completely paved. One may travel west to the town of Athabasca and on to Highway No.
2 to his destination, or he may continue on Highway No. 46
through Boyle and on to Highway
No. 28 some 50 miles from Edmonton. This route is favored by the people of McMurray, it offers the shortest and most direct route and great possibilities for development and thereby employment.

It will encourage greater timber exploitation from which the province will receive increased timber dues as outlined, together with additional revenue to our people in the cutting and manufacturing of the wood products therefrom. It will encourage increased transportation, and oil and gas exploration. It will provide additional gasoline tax and increased revenue from commercial fishing to say nothing of the tremendous tourist potential that this development will create. In presenting this resolution, I offer no criticism, I realize full well that in spite of the many advantages that this highway offers, as I have outlined as best I could, the area is very sparsely populated, particularly that portion north of Lac la Biche and Wandering River to McMurray. However, there is a bright spot even here. The Commission report forecasts a population growth from the present 8,500 to 47,000 by 1987.

I sincerely trust Mr. Speaker that in weighing all the factors that you will be able to accept this resolution as presented. In closing I wish to thank the Hon.
Member from Hand Hills Mr.
French for seconding this motion and enabling me to present it to you for your consideration. I am grateful to the Northern Development Commission Report without which I would not have been able to present this resolution today.

Soap or synthetic detergent. Have you ever wondered which is the best washing product? Whether you use soap or a detergent depends on the water. Where the water is soft, soap is the most efficient cleaning agent. If the water is hard—that is containing large amounts of calcium or magnesium salts, a synthetic detergent is better. Soap combines with the minerals in hard water to form insoluble curd-like particles. These are responsible for turning white fabrics gray and for dulling color. This soap curd also causes clothes to turn brown when ironed.

Hardness in water is expressed in terms of grains (weight of the mineral content) per gallon or in parts per million of calcium carbonate.

Soft water, 0 grains per gallon, 0 parts per million; moderately soft, 0-4 grains per gallon, 0-51 parts per million; moderately hard, 4-9 grains per gallon, 51-120 parts per million; hard, 7-20 grains per gallon, 120-340 parts per million; very hard, 20-50 grains per gallon, 340-855 parts per million.

If you have not had a water analysis it might be a good idea to have this done. This service is provided free by the provincial government through your local health unit. A bacterial analysis is done when requested as well as a chemical analysis. The former is advisable if there is any source of contamination which can enter the well. The chemical analysis will not only reveal the hardness of the water but will list other minerals which are present and warn against the use of the water if the amount is harmful to humans, animals or plants.

Iron, which is a constituent of some well water is the source of a yellow or reddish color on fabrics when a chlorine type bleach is used.

Soaps and synthetic detergents each have two main classes. These are the light duty or mild, and the heavy duty or all-purpose. The former are recommended for woollens and fine lingerie. The others state on the package that they are for the family wash. The heavy duty products contain water softening chemicals and alkaline salts which speed soil removal.

When buying wash day products note the weight of the package as well as the price. The size of the box is not an accurate indication of the amount of the product you are getting.

If you have washing problems, write, phone or call in to my office.

A WEALTH OF EXOTIC COLORS

Jerry, 11, Has A Million In "Glads"

By Ken Larson

Newspaper advertising paid off back in 1954 for an Alberta Beach boy who was stricken with polio. Jerry Oselies, one of four members of his family who were stricken at the same time, placed some ads in newspapers that are read in all parts of the world and collected 150 varieties of gladioli bulbs.

Today, Jerry has well over a million of these bulbs, in beautiful shades ranging from black, green-ice, blue sky, brown rust, amber, jade, to golden-edge, transparent and silver-hair. The price range for some of these exotic shades run between $8 and $15.

However, Jerry, now 11 years old, finds a million "glads" far more than he can manage. He's now making up polythene bags containing about 200 bulbs in a mixture of colors. He doesn't guarantee each bag will contain all 150 varieties, but he's selling them for a rock bottom price of $1.00. There will be enough different ones to make Alberta gardeners happy, though. There's no limit on the number of packages you can buy for $1 (which covers cost of mailing) and Jerry will mail them out after danger of frost is gone.

LIVE ON FARM

Jerry and his eight brothers and sisters live on a farm a quarter of a mile from the summer village of Alberta Beach in the MD of Lac Ste. Anne. His father was one of the four stricken with polio back in '54, in fact, he was hit hardest. He still needs a cane to get around outside the house.

Mr. Oselies hasn't been able to farm his land since, but draws a disability pension. He has named his farm, Garden Park Farm, and during the last six of the 14 years he's been on his three-quarter section of land, has pursued his hobby of gardening.

For example, he has a number of varieties in apple trees and mountain ash, and estimates he has a million growing now. His pride and joy are his strawberry plants. Like Jerry, he advertised in the classified ad section and eventually accumulated 64 varieties from Ireland, Germany and other parts of the world. He hopes to have 100 varieties by summer's end.

SELLING STRAWBERRIES

Some of the juiciest tasting strawberries can be the readers' who act on the classified ad Mr. Oselies has in the Alberta Country Life section this week regarding his plants.

Should you happen to visit his farm home you'll find that Mr. Oselies makes winter evening's brighter because of interest in a wide range of things. You'll see samples of his taxidermy and oil painting, and his collection of National Geographic Magazines dating back to 1911.

His stamp collecting got ahead of him until now he has about 50 pounds of stamps to sort out—also the results of newspaper advertising, says Mr. Oselies.

He has an assortment of foreign coins including some pounded and inscribed by slaves dating back to Roman times. A Lithuanian by birth, he will show you a beautiful piece of amber he took out of the Baltic sea when he was a boy.

Meanwhile, Jerry and his father will be busy packaging gladioli bulbs. Jerry's not worried about having something to do. He'll con-

Conference To Hear Address By J. Teibe

The Rev. John L. Teibe, home on furlough from India, along with Missionaries Rev. Leslie Crawford of Africa, Rev. Henry Werner of the West Indies and Miss Mona Sperling of France, will take part in the first missionary conference to be held in Lac la Biche and Hylo Evangelical Free Churches Thursday to Sunday, March 17 to 20.

The Hylo meetings will be held in the Hylo Public School Thursday and Saturday. Friday night's meeting will be in the Hylo church. Lac la Biche meetings will be held Thursday through Saturday in the Lac la Biche Evangelical Free Church. All of these week night meetings will be at 8:00 p.m.

Missionary pictures will be featured each night, with a special film "New India" scheduled for Sunday, March 20.

Sunday services will be combined with two great meetings at 2:30 and 6:30 p.m. in the Lac la Biche Memorial Hall. Supper will be served at 5:00 p.m.

Rev. John L. Teibe, now residing in Calgary, is home on furlough after an unusually strenuous and eventful ministry in Youth for Christ for 4½ years in India.

After graduation from Berean Bible College in 1950, he was pastor at a church for five years at Innisfail. In January, 1955, he arrived in Bombay, India, and one year later succeeded Joe Weatherly as all-India director of YFC.

One major contribution of his ministry has been the publication of India's own YFC magazine — LIVE, edited and published by him. LIVE supplied a great need for a first class English medium magazine for young people in India.

With his family Teibe moved to Madras in April, 1958, to begin preparations for the 10th World Congress for Christian Youth held in January 1959, which drew over 200 delegates from all of the 15 states in India and at least 10 other countries.

Returning to Canada he now seeks to pass on to young people his burning conviction that today is the greatest opportunity ever, to reach this generation of Indian young people with the Gospel.

Pioneer Experiences Recalled By Joseph Michetti, Oldtimer Of Hylo

HYLO — Joseph Michetti celebrated his 80th birthday on Feb. 26.

He was born in Italy in 1880, travelled through China and Germany and in 1911 sailed to North America. He spent two years in the United States and says he has been in 40 of the 50 states.

In 1913, when work was scarce, he travelled to Edmonton and then decided to go on to the end of the steel on the east line, at Colington. With no alternative he went to Hylo by foot and on horseback. Neighbors were few and far between but in 1917 his wife and two sons joined him.

Mrs. Michetti, always a jolly person, has many interesting tales to tell. She describes her arrival at Hylo by saying when she got off the train she had to walk one mile through thick woods, a rabbit trail her highway, and at the other end a 12 by 12 ft. mud-covered shack to call her home. She says she nearly called it "quits" after the first rain when the muddy water seeped through the roof and on to her white linens which she had brought from home and cherished dearly.

Mr. and Mrs. Michetti have retired now but still live on the same farm. They have nine children, 44 grandchildren and seven great grandchildren.

Mr. Michetti says he no longer fears the hoot owls but confessed when he first came to Hylo he lost a lot of sleep wondering what they were. He says he barred the doors through the doors wide open to YFC. John Teibe and his family will return to India in the fall of 1960. In his next term of ministry he will direct a leadership training program among the Christian youth and churches of India, as part of the responsibility in his present office of YFCI vice-president of India.

THE 3 FACES OF EVE

By Corbett T. Thigpen, M.D., and Hervey M. Cleckley, M.D.

This is the true story of one of the most remarkable cases of multiple personality in all medical history as told by the two doctors who treated the case.

Eve White, a shy, demure housewife, is under treatment for agonizing headaches. Suddenly, before the doctors' very eyes, she changes into a saucy, flirtatious woman who calls herself Eve Black.

She tells the doctors that she occasionally takes possession of Eve White's body. She seems to know all about Eve White, but Eve White doesn't know about her.

Chapter 4

During his first hour's interview with the energetic and capricious woman who called herself Eve Black, the physician had often reminded himself that Ralph White was outside in the waiting room.

Eve White's auditory hallucinations established beyond a doubt the deep gravity of her psychiatric illness, and he deemed it advisable that she enter the hospital. Would the husband believe such a report as the physician must give him?

The physician decided that the husband must meet Eve Black in person, must see her himself, and speak with her directly. Otherwise he would probably lose confidence in the physician and, perhaps, refuse to let his wife be admitted to the hospital.

With such thoughts in mind he asked the patient, "What do you think we ought to do now?"

"Lord Doc," she said smiling amiably as she rocked the crossed leg gently over the other smooth knee, "How would I know? Watching you work with her so long I've got to kind of like you. I'm willing to try most anything you say."

DOESN'T LIKE HIM

He asked her if she would be willing to talk with Ralph White. "Why should I talk with him, Doc?" she answered, a little startled. "I don't like the man and I don't want to have nothing to do with him, either."

She said finally that she would be willing to do what she could to make things better for Eve White, but her statement did not carry great conviction. The physician explained that he felt it necessary for Eve White to come into the hospital and to stay for a while in the psychiatric section.

Eve Black admitted that it was none of her business what the other Eve might decide to do, but made it plain that she herself did not relish the idea of finding herself on a "bughouse ward." She did not want to be limited by its restrictions if she succeeded in getting out during the period of Eve White's hospitalization.

"I've already got a date for the dance out at Ten Mile Tavern next Friday night," she said. "Her husband's planning to be away for the night on business and she'd made plans to take Bonnie and spend the night at a girl friend's house. There's a good chance I might get out that night."

SERIOUSNESS EXPLAINED

The seriousness of Eve White's disorder was, then, carefully explained. The girl listened politely but showed little serious concern.

The physician decided it was necessary to be more frank, to emphasize some points he had hoped might be left unspoken. He told this girl that he did not know what course Eve White's illness might take. The auditory hallucinations, no matter how one might account for them, suggested that she might become much worse.

If she became profoundly irrational, perhaps dangerous to herself and others, she might have to remain confined in an institution for many months, perhaps for years. Because of her husband's limited financial resources, commitment to the State Hospital would be her only choice. With Eve White confined thus, there would be no place to go, nothing very interesting to do when Eve Black emerged for her "times out."

Now as the point about confinement sank slowly into the debonaire girl's awareness, she was forced to agree that her own future would be jeopardized if Eve White grew worse; prolonged confinement of the other would mean confinement also for her.

"I think you got something there, Doc," she said reluctantly.

AGREES TO HOSPITAL

She agreed then for the contentment of her body to go into the hospital, and promised not to exert any force or influence available to her to prevent this step or to impede or disrupt treatment.

She also agreed to refrain from whatever she did that (according to her) resulted in Eve White's hearing voices. But she would not promise to do all she could to relieve the other's headaches.

"Why, if I did that, Doc, I might not ever be able to get out again."

Eve Black agreed to reveal her identity to Ralph White and to discuss the situation with him. Sitting with him in another office the physician wondered how the deeply worried, and already bewildered husband should be prepared for what he was to encounter.

It was deemed inadvisable to offer him at this point any theoretical explanations of dual personality or to emphasize the fact that a few similar manifestations had been extensively described in the medical and psychological literature.

HUSBAND SEES HER

It was decided to let Ralph first see this woman who called herself Eve Black. He had lived with his wife for almost seven years. Certainly he should be able to recognize her through any disguise, be it of play-acting, hysteria, or of psychosis. No matter what changes might have occurred in this woman, he should be able to discern features inaccessible to another that would establish for him her identity as Eve White.

When brought into the presence of Eve Black by the physician, this husband was, of course, immediately confronted by an infinity of detail to him long familiar. The hair on this woman's head, every strand of it, was his wife's hair. The nose, ears, eyebrows, all the lines and contours of the face were intimately known by him as her very own.

Contradicting all this came the brash, unfamiliar voice in which Eve Black said that she had never married him, that she was no wife of his. Anatomically this face was the face he knew, but all that it expressed was alien.

At the beginning of the interview, it seemed to the physician that Ralph White, though amazed and genuinely distressed, clung to the idea that nervous instability

THE DOCTOR asked, "Do you ever have the feeling that deep down in you there's still somebody that you used to be, somebody you can't quite reach?" After pondering a few moments, she said, "I . . . I don't know." Read Chapter 4 in this week's instalment of the astounding, true story of a woman with a multiple personality. See "The Three Faces of Eve" in this paper.

and emotional stress had led his wife, through some fantastic caprice, to adopt this unheard-of attitude. Patiently he tried to reason with her as one might with a child who, in speech and behavior, is carrying out the absurdities of a tantrum.

"WHAT ABOUT BONNIE"

In the discussion with Ralph, Eve Black repeated most of what she had already told the physician. And as Ralph, for whom she acknowledged only an impersonal acquaintance, found himself unable to break down any pretences or make her admit the folly of her statements, despair and, finally, something akin to awe seemed to possess him.

Grasping for what he knew to be his wife's deepest feelings, Ralph White, after a moment of perplexed and tense silence, slowly said, "Bonnie . . . our little girl . . . what about Bonnie . . . ? what shall we . . . what can I . . . ?"

"Why ask me?" she interrupted him. "Do what you like about the kid. How many times am I goin' to have to tell you I got nothing to do with your child—or with you either." Her eyes drifted from him, as if her attention had turned to other matters. She leaned forward a little and absent-mindedly began to scratch a knee.

"These damn nylon stockings she puts on! They always make me itch!" she said.

HYPNOSIS WOULDN'T WORK

After leaving the room Ralph and the physician talked at length. Permission was freely granted for the patient to enter the hospital and receive treatment.

It then became appropriate, one might say to locate the patient who was to receive treatment. Eve White on a previous occasion had gone into hypnosis without difficulty. Perhaps if the present Eve could be hypnotized the other personality might emerge or somehow be brought out.

This girl said she had no objections to the procedure. Though she seemed co-operative, several attempts were unsuccessful. It may be noted here that, though Eve White was subsequently put under hypnosis on many occasions, Eve Black remained refractory though numerous other attempts were made.

After some discussion the girl suggested that the physician call Eve White by name. Her eyes closed as the name "Eve White" was called.

EVE WHITE COMES BACK

A moment later they slowly opened, now quiet, cautious, looking to the physician more pale, as if they had actually been drained of color.

This face wore the habitual expression of Eve White. Instead of the animation and vitality it had reflected only a few minutes ago there was now an inconspicuous sweetness, a delicate poise almost masking the faint lines of tension.

Automatically she moved a little in the chair, apparently finding the easy posture that had been adopted by her alternate unfamiliar or a little incongruous. Her legs assumed a more sedate position, with knees and feet together. "What happened?" asked the physician.

She paused as if to think back. "I don't know," she said in her slow, precise voice. "Was it anything very much . . . ? I might have had a blackout . . . but I'm not sure." She smiled. "My head, Doctor, the pain has all gone."

"I . . . I DON'T KNOW"

The physician now talked with Eve White at some length, reviewing particularly all items that it seemed logical to think might stir some latent awareness or still unrealized capacity for recollection that might serve as a link between the two manifestations.

He finally asked: "Do you ever have the feeling, perhaps for a moment, that deep down in you there's still somebody that you used to be, somebody you can't quite reach?"

She looked up at him with puzzled eyes. After pondering a few moments, she said, "I . . . I don't know what you mean."

He suggested that she enter the hospital and, discussing plans for this with her, he noted that her reactions were those of one who had heard nothing of what he had said on this subject a little earlier to Eve Black.

Next week—Eve White recalls an important and terrifying incident of her childhood. (From the book The Three Faces of Eve, copyright 1957, by Corbett H. Thigpen and Hervey M. Cleckley, and published by McGraw-Hill Book Co., Inc.) Distributed by The Register and Tribune Syndicate.

★ STARS ★ in your eyes

By FRANK PAGE

"If the stars came out only once in a thousand years," said Emerson, "everyone would go out to look at them." Amid the glare of modern city lighting, the stars tend to pass unnoticed by the average person. It is to point out some of the wonders of the night skies that this series of articles is being presented.

Look towards the south-east in any clear morning during the next month or two, and northern Albertans will see two largest planets of the solar system, Jupiter and Saturn. During the present weekend the spectacle will be unusually beautiful, for on Sunday at about 4 p.m., the moon will be very near to Jupiter. By Monday morning, April 21, it will have travelled some degrees farther east and will be in the neighborhood of Saturn. Your best time for viewing these planets will be about two or three hours before sunrise.

Jupiter is by far the largest planet of the Solar System, and is the possessor of twelve moons. Of these, four are clearly visible even to a telescope of low power. Galileo was the first to see them when, in 1610, he turned on them his crude little 3-power telescope. If you have a pair of binoculars, look for these moons, which appear like tiny gems of light on either side of the planet. If you watch long enough, you may see one of them disappear behind the planet, to emerge some time later, at the other edge, as it travels on its orbit around the planet.

Space vehicles of the future may yield much more information about this great planet, but it is highly improbable that it will ever be colonized by earthlings. Its temperature of minus 200 degrees Fahrenheit, and its poisonous atmosphere of ammonia and methane gases, can hardly be regarded as inviting settlement.

Mrs. John Wayne went to Edmonton to visit her husband who is a patient in the hospital there.

Ottawa Report

By Anthony J. Wright

Labor Minister Mike Starr when he told Canadian youngsters to get as much education as possible was speaking from the heart as well as the head. He had to leave school at 15 to help bring home the bacon in Oshawa, Ont. But he found that if he were to get on in life he'd need more schooling. So he went back to high school, did

Anthony Wright brilliantly at a commercial course and later landed an office job he never would have got. He warns youngsters now that more and more of our jobs call for skill of one kind or another and fewer of them require mere willingness to work and a strong back.

EXPECT PERMITS TO BE GRANTED

Those that know the oil business believe that the National Energy Board will recommend that at least four out of the five applications to export national gas will be granted. The Board's report is likely to be in the government's hands by the time you read this. The government may hold on to the report for two weeks and make it public at the end of March.

But there's many a slip between the cup and the lip. No one knows for sure what the Board will recommend.

If the Board approves the granting of permits, the government is not likely to stand in their way. The one permit about which I have heard doubts is that of Niagra Gas, a subsidiary of Consumers' Gas Ltd., to sell natural gas to New York State at Cornwall.

The four other permits requested involve export of a total of 863 million cubic feet of gas daily. Trans Canada Pipelines, Alberta and Southern, Westcoast Transmission and the Canadian-Montana Pipeline Company. The fuel will go to northern California, the U.S. Midwest, Montana and the State of Washington. And for the capped wells and workers of Alberta it won't be a day too soon.

DEFICIENCY PAYMENTS

The long-delayed refusal of the government to grant deficiency payments on grain is another example of the political truth that when a government says it will give serious consideration to a proposal it usually means it will consider the best way to refuse it without being nasty.

Governments have to do this in self-defence.

Politicians hate to say "No". Mr. Diefenbaker has the most winning way of not saying "Yes" of any national leader. People come from his office aglow because of the infectious drive and charm of the man but it does not mean that the man they have just left is also aglow with the idea they took to him.

He turned down deficiency payments on grain because it would cost the treasury too much, a relatively little for 35 percent of the smaller grain farmers, increase our surpluses and help to shrink our markets for oats and barley. At least, that is the government's contention. Mr. Diefenbaker repeated on March 4, that "we recognize that certain grain farmers in western Canada require assistance." Hazen Argue called the government's refusal "a shocking repudiation."

OTTAWA BRIEFS

Senator David Croll, first person of Jewish faith to be called to the Senate, told his fellows the other day he would not trust Germany with a pop gun or a water pistol because "they would turn it into a weapon of war." Croll and another senator, spry 82-year-old Arthur Roebuck were fired from Ontario's Cabinet on the same day by Mitchell Hepburn, pre-war Liberal premier of Ontario. Mitch had letters of resignation typed out, told an office boy to take them to Messrs Croll and Roebuck and get them signed. Senator Croll's split with Hepburn came when Croll, as Labor Minister, said during a strike "I'd rather walk with the United Automobile Workers than ride with General Motors." He is an eloquent, forceful and respected Parliamentarian. Senator Roebuck looks 70 and, at 82, works harder than many men of 60.

SAYS SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT:

Parents Must Make Certain Child's Will On God's Side

Problems of undisciplined children would be fewer if parents would strengthen the will of their child for good and be certain that their will is on the side of God. This was the advice Dr. Peter Bergen, superintendent of Jasper Place schools, gave at a men's brotherhood meeting at Fellowship Baptist Church, 111 Ave. and 113 St.

Dr. Bergen disagreed with the theory that children shouldn't be disciplined for fear of giving them inferiority complexes. He said self-expression is sometimes confused with license.

He said it is essential to exercise muscles in order to make them strong and that it is just as essential to harness the sensate and discipline the lower appetites in order to build character. He quoted Abraham Lincoln as saying that a river follows the line of least resistance, "that's why it's crooked!" "Christian character is not all one way or another," Dr. Bergen said. "It is a balance — nothing more or less than the reconciling of opposite virtues. The brave man is also tender, otherwise he could become cruel."

"When we speak of character we can't forget the Christian basis of our faith," he noted. "A man can 'repair' himself, but he can't transform himself into a Christian character."

"I think the difference is this. There are two ways to change a thing, either by pressure on the outside or inside. Basically our character must come out of the grace of God or through Him. This is often forgotten today!"

Dr. Bergen started to explain by pointing out that there are four levels of existence: chemicals, plants, animals and a higher level. He explained how chemicals must change their form to be used by plants. Plants must become something else to become part of animals.

"We are all creatures of God," said the speaker, "because God made us. We become a child of God only after we are remade. In the realm of the spiritual, mankind must surrender his being and be changed into a higher life."

Dr. Bergen concluded by saying that mankind must choose where he'll live — on the sensate plane such as beatniks, on a cultural or rational level which does not permit full development, or else on the divine level.

He said that children must be taught right from wrong, that it must begin at home, and that "if we as fathers want to help our children we must strengthen their will for the good, making certain that their will is on the side of God."

THE WAR IS OVER!

Province-Wide Attention Given Larry's Produce On Egg Prices

By Ken Larson

The war is over—Larry Ewanishan's personal egg price war, that is! He gave Two Hills district farmers—and competitors—a jolt during the last week in February by paying farmers 40 cents a dozen for eggs. In Edmonton, the going price was 30 cents for grade A large.

Larry hoped that by raising his prices, he would boost the purchasing power of farmers who deal at Two Hills stores. However, other produce firms didn't co-operate and neither did all local stores.

The result was Larry's Produce paid 40 cents for two days, then 35 for two days, then 33 for one and finally dropped to 28 which most Alberta firms were paying.

Eggs on Thursday of last week were down to 25 cents a dozen, while in eastern Canada the prices were: Montreal 38 and Toronto 35. Larry doesn't feel the last Alberta price drop was warranted. He also feels that the big companies hurt the Alberta market by importing cheaper eggs from Winnipeg and the U.S.

Although Larry lost money because he was forced to sell the eggs he bought for 40 cents at 37 cents, he hopes the Alberta-wide publicity that has been given his little war may help focus attention on the problem of egg prices paid to farmers.

Once again another week has gone by and all our work and all our speeches, actions, deeds are gone into eternity. And now after concluding our meetings and staying at home we are at Prince Albert, Sask., where we are with Rev. and Mrs. Roberts in meetings, starting on the 9th of March. In spite of much snow and storms we are looking to God for a great time in these meetings. For we know if God is with us and in our midst we can expect great things from Him for He is our Father and we are His children.

While at Boyle in our home place this time, it was our great privilege to have with us over Sunday Mr. Kassen and Mr. Kauscher of Edmonton. They presented the Rev. A. A. Allan with a TV film of the services taken under the big tent in the USA. The attendance was good and the film was enjoyed by all present. We hope to see more of them out there soon. We are living in serious days and we need to pray for our land; for the Bible says that if two agree as touching any thing in faith according to God's will it shall be so. And we agree that we need a power to cope with the problems we are facing today in our spiritual world, and that power is only the Power of our God. We ask for your prayers for us and the people we meet and minister to in this day.

When you are around and near Boyle, we would give you a hearty invitation to the meetings at Bethel Full Gospel Church, just 10 miles west and 2 miles north of Boyle. Our Sunday school is at 10:30, and morning worship at 11:30, every Sunday. We will be so happy to see you there. Write us if you enjoy this Gospel news, we will enjoy knowing.

Falling Meteorite Sends Tremors Through Homes In Egremont Area

EGREMONT — A spectacular phenomenon was seen on March 3 about 1:05 a.m. A huge meteorite flashed across the sky in what seemed to be in a north-easterly direction. It lit up the countryside with a brilliance seldom seen, and anyone who saw it certainly had a ringside seat for one of Nature's marvels.

The meteorite seemed to land with a thud that sent tremors shaking houses, rattling windows and furniture. Mrs. Mary Semenchuk and Mrs. Lena Hrycoy went outside and smelled something similar to burning birch.

Before the snowfall early this week, about 275 pounds of the meteorite, including four fragments of more than 50 pounds, had been found northeast of Bruderheim.

Scientists at the University of Alberta are hoping that eventually enough pieces of the meteorite will be found to let them piece the fragments together, to determine the meteorite's original size and the manner in which it exploded.

They also ask that anybody finding a fragment not to touch it, but mark its location well and notify the geology department at the university. This would greatly enhance the scientific value of the find.

If persons finding fragments wish to keep them, the scientists request that they lend the fragments to the university to help piece them together. The fragments will be returned.

Scientists of the National Research Council and the meteorological section of the department of transport, as well as of the Royal Astronomical Society in Edmonton, are co-operating with the university departments involved.

Sharon Saik came in first, Gerry Heigh second, both teams were from Innisfree and Clarence Charchuk of Ranfurly was third. The hard luck prize went to Gordon Cook of Minburn.

Bright Object In The Night Sky

SMOKY LAKE — On Mar. 3 at 1:00 a.m., a huge, meteor-like object roared across the sky and passed directly over the Victoria district south of Smoky Lake.

It approached from the east, rumbling with a deafening noise resembling that of a continuous crashing of thunder. It illuminated the sky with a brilliant light as it sped with great velocity and disappeared into the west.

The object was found later to have been a meteor.

Mr. and Mrs. Skuba were married in the Ukraine on Feb. 21, 1910, and came to Alberta in 1914. They farmed at Spedden, Alberta, until their retirement at Smoky Lake.

All their children were present for the reception, which included Mr. and Mrs. William Skuba of Abee; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Skuba of Abee; Mr. and Mrs. William Diduck of Thorhild; Mr. and Mrs. John Skuba of Smoky Lake; Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Skuba of Ed-

Handbook Going to Every Canadian Home Clarifies True Choice For Free World

TORONTO, March 7 — In a nation-wide distribution through the Post Office every home in Canada will receive a manifesto which is clarifying for hundreds of millions of people across the world the issues created by the cold war.

A handbook, "Ideology and Co-Existence", prepared by Moral Re-Armament, will this week go to 4,300,000 Canadian homes. Patriotic Canadians determined that Canada play her part to put the free world on the ideological offensive have taken this initiative.

Canadians will join the ranks of 18 million families throughout Europe who have already received "Ideology and Co-Existence" which expresses the ideology of the free world in clear terms and presents an answer to Communism. It has gone to every home in Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Finland, Iceland, Holland and Switzerland. Within the next weeks it goes to 40 million homes in Britain, France, West Germany, Italy, Australia and the key areas of Asia, Africa and Latin America.

In this handbook are expressed the forthright convictions of world statesmen such as: M. Robert Schuman, former Prime Minister and Foreign Minister of France; Prime Minister Diefenbaker; Chancellor Konrad Adenauer; John Riffe, late Executive Vice-President of the CIO; US Admiral William H. Standley; and Dr. Douglas Cornell, Executive Officer of the National Academy of Sciences, Washington, D.C.

Moscow has attacked "Ideology and Co-Existence" in over 100 articles noting that "it is putting an end to the ideological softening up of the free world".

In Switzerland, General Henri Guisan, wartime Commander-in-Chief of the Swiss Army, wrote in a foreword, "Our country follows a non-committal policy in international affairs. On the ideological plane, however, neutrality can be dangerous, for refusal to fight for what is right plays the enemy's game."

In Cyprus former EOKA freedom fighters distributed the booklet by hand to every Greek home.

The German Foreign Office ordered 1200 copies for its officials. National distribution will follow.

In Holland, "Volkskrant", the official organ of the Prime Minister's Catholic Party, stated, "In an age in which statesmen from the West are negotiating with great difficulty with the Kremlin to achieve peaceful co-existence... when representatives of trade unions and parliaments hurry to Moscow to undergo friendly brainwashing — in this age Moral Re-Armament hoists the storm signal: co-existence is impossible... The Catholic community of Holland wholeheartedly subscribes to the present call."

Scandinavia warranted the all-out attack of Moscow when "Ideology and Co-Existence" went to 6,700,000 homes in five Nordic languages. Earlier, Premier Khrushchev had been forced to cancel his visit to Scandinavia by a group of leaders who had planned a strategy to keep their nations free from totalitarianism. These same men again took the lead to distribute the handbook. It went to every home from the West Coast of Greenland to Finnish villages on the Russian border and the northernmost town of Norway's Arctic coast to the Danish German border. On the East Coast of Greenland it reached tiny villages and snow huts by dog-sled. In remote areas it was dropped in postbags from aeroplanes.

In Kerala, India, recently freed from a Communist administration, leaders of the liberation movement are giving their State a unifying idea. "Ideology and Co-Existence" was carried in full by twelve main newspapers and will go to a million families.

TIPS FOR PARENTS

By EDITH HENRY
(Parent Education Associates)

THERE'S an old saying: "The longest way round is the shortest way home."

Educators, it seems, believe this is true in helping your child to read. They are in favor of our using indirect methods, allowing the schools to do the more direct work.

INDIRECT METHODS

Here are some pointers:

- No one can learn without the energy good health provides. Make sure the child is physically in good shape. Teeth and tonsils should be free of infection.

- Sight and hearing should be watched, as the occasional child overcomes and hides poor sight or hearing with cleverness. Periodic check-ups are wise.

- Sufficient rest is important. A tired child cannot learn efficiently.

- Mental health is necessary, too. Strain and upset at home are not conducive to learning at school.

- If the child is proud of his reading, brings his little book home, and wants us to listen, give him undivided attention. Your interest "helps."

- Make your home friendly to reading. Read yourself; read to the children; read to the family.

Many parents have felt that reading aloud to children discourages them from reading to themselves. We know now that children who are "read to" learn to enjoy books and are more apt to use them.

- Read simple plays together. It can be fun.

- See that there are plenty of interesting books around. They can be the child's own possessions which he will come to love.

They can be library books when the child is ready for greater variety.

- A non-reader can be encouraged by providing something related to his immediate interest.

The slow reader is better with a number of easy books rather than with one which is more advanced. His pleasure and speed are thus developed. He will pick up harder books when he is ready.

Mr. & Mrs. Nick Nykipilo Honored On Silver Wedding Anniversary

BOYLE — A surprise party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Nykipilo to honor them on their 25th wedding anniversary.

There were over 170 persons present. A buffet supper was served at midnight by the neighboring ladies and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Nykipilo were presented with a silver serving tray and tea and coffee service by the group of friends, neighbors and district relatives.

A mixmaster and food chopper were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Nykipilo by the latter's brothers and sisters.

Their son Kenneth presented his parents with a hostess serving set in white orchid design. Many other beautiful gifts were presented to the honored couple.

The table was laid with a white crocheted cloth centred with a 3-tiered wedding cake flanked by two bouquets of tea roses and white tapered candles. The roses were a gift from Mrs. Nykipilo's nephews and niece of Warspite.

Two of Mrs. Nykipilo's brothers, Nick Zukewsky of Calgary and Eddie Zukewsky of Fort St. John, B.C., and one sister, Pauline Zukewsky of Winnipeg, were unable to be present. Mr. Nykipilo's sister, Mrs. Annie Hrychuk of Edmonton, was unable to be present due to illness.

Mr and Mrs. Nykipilo were pleased and honored to have their bridesmaids and best men back after 25 years. They were: Mrs. Mary Zukewsky of Edmonton; Mr. Nick Bencharsky of Boyle; Katie Bencharsky of Boyle and Mr. Anton Hewko of Sarrail.

Bill Holyk and his orchestra supplied the music for the evening in honor of his uncle's silver wedding.

Mr. Nykipilo's sister and brother-in-law Mr. and Mrs. John Holyk of St Michael observed their 36th wedding anniversary the same evening.

Guests were present from Bruderheim, St. Michael Radway, Warspite, Smoky Lake, Lac la Biche, Edmonton, Calgary, Athabasca, Grassland and Sarrail.

Mr. and Mrs. Nykipilo held open house the following Sunday to their friends and neighbors. Guest of honor was the Rev. Nicholas Stasenko of Lac la Biche.

School Trustees Meet Reported "One Of Most Successful Ever"

One of the most successful conferences of School Trustees Association members of Zone 2 was held in Edmonton just recently with a very large attendance of trustees, secretaries and superintendents. Its success was due to a very informative and inspiring program.

On the first day Alvin Myhre, M.A., spoke on "A Coded School Board Policy in Alberta", reviewing the development of handbooks and their value to school boards. He stressed the necessity of participation in the preparation of this handbook by all those affected by school board policy. The handbook not only saves the time of the school board by freeing them from the necessity of repeatedly having to make up their minds on all matters but it is a source of information to the public.

Munroe McLeod, Superintendent of Schools then spoke on "Emancipation of Teachers from Methodology". Together with the Alberta Royal Commission he felt that the business of principals and superintendents was results and not methods used to achieve those results.

Russell Sterling gave a report on the school grant seminar held in Banff. He reported on the strength and weakness of the present grant structure and how further equalization features might be devised to lessen the burden on the less wealthy areas. Future planning should include equalization in a foundation program that might be guaranteed for every area.

F. Swan agreed with the report but thought that the definition of a foundation program might be somewhat difficult.

P. Shewchuk explained some of the inequalities in the present system. However all members admitted the difficulties in devising a new scheme. It was not only a question of formula but the formula had to be fitted to an actual sum of money voted by the legislature. They reported that a committee of A.T.A. and A.S.T.A. members would continue to study grant payments.

GIFTED CHILDREN

M. Gault of Athabasca then addressed the gathering with information on the "Gifted Child Project". A pilot study had been launched early in the history of the project but further work had been suspended until the program of identification had been completed. Originally it had been planned to complete this phase by the fall of 1958. Owing to many technical difficulties there had been many delays but the report was now almost ready. In most investigations an intelligence quotient of 130 had been taken as the figure but, for our purposes, it was decided to identify the top quartile which in our cases consisted of about 8.6% of the total tested population. Various comparisons and correlations had been worked out of which a complete record would be distributed to the superintendents of the twelve cooperating areas. Mr. Gault and later Dr. Black urged the boards to continue the study. Some consideration was given towards obtaining a permanent staff for this type of work.

At this point time for elections was allowed and the following were elected to the executive. Mrs. M. Bielish of Waskatenau, president; Mr. Frank Maddock of Stony Plain, vice-president and Mr. M. Hrynchuk of Redwater, second vice-president. A hearty vote of thanks was voted to the outgoing executive, especially to Mr. Sterling, president, and Mr. Wiggins, secretary, both of whom had performed outstanding service in the past.

Mrs. M. Bielish then gave the highlights of the Canadian School Trustees Convention held in Saskatoon last fall. There were 208 registered delegates representing almost every province in Canada. There were reports on conditions in every province but she was especially proud of the report of the Alberta School Trustees' Association.

FURTHER STUDY

A special committee brought in a recommendation that a further study be made of the need for Community Colleges and their establishment.

Dr. John Andrews of the Faculty of Education presented an address on the Alberta Royal Commission report. He stated that the commission was directed to perform two tasks:

- (1) What kind of education do we want our children to have?
- (2) What do we need to carry out this kind of education?

A survey by questionnaire indicated that answers varied widely and that any curriculum which could be devised would have to be a compromise and subject to criticism from both extremes. The task of the Royal Commission then was to discover whether the present type of curriculum was the right kind of compromise. The members then concluded that they might move in certain directions outlined below:

In curriculum some of their recommendations would provide more diversification as in the extension of public education into the field of vocational training, and in supporting accreditation for certain types of schools. Other recommendations moved in direction of increased specialization as in directing that a larger proportion of time be spent in a student's chosen field. This is also evident in the greater emphasis on the acquisition of knowledge rather than more intangible aims. This does not reflect a total swing of the pendulum to the past but a realization of the fact that knowledge of some factual material is necessary to acquire both appreciation and understanding.

To accomplish the above aims there were also definite recommendations. Some of these showed a trend toward further decentralization as in the appointment of local superintendents and in the increased responsibility of principals. One definite reversal of this principle was the recommendation that grade X and XI examinations be restored. The Department of Education of the future was conceived to be less concerned with regulatory functions than with supervision and research. For the teaching force there was to be more and improved training and to attract the best calibre of personnel.

vastly increased salaries. Adult education was also to become a more serious endeavour than it had been in the past.

The members of this conference separated this year with more feeling that education was a serious endeavour and that it would require the continued cooperation of everybody to achieve success in the modern world.

INDUSTRIAL TAX WON'T FORCE UNION OF MUNICIPALITIES

The Social Credit government's new industrial tax legislation won't force municipal districts surrounding Edmonton into amalgamation with the city. That's the general feeling among municipal and government officials as Municipal Affairs Minister Hooke's bill for the taxation of basic industries by the province was discussed in the legislature this week.

Under the bill the tax would not exceed 60 mills. Thirty percent of the revenue collected would go to the municipality in which the industry is located and 70 percent to the municipality servicing the industry. Taxes collected under the new bill would be payable on Sept. 1.

However, Mr. Hooke recently stated that the government is not going to use the proposed industrial tax as a substitute for amalgamation of adjoining municipalities in the Edmonton area.

He said the McNally Commission suggested further study of the tax idea and "ever since the report of the commission came out we have been studying it closely and our proposed legislation is the result of this study."

Two years ago, according to Mr. Hooke, special legislation was put on the statute books to facilitate amalgamation of any municipalities desiring it.

The bill will be given a thorough study when it goes before the house. Persons wishing to present arguments for or against the bill will be given an opportunity to do so.

The plan would likely result in Edmonton receiving about $600,000 in tax revenues collected from the oil refineries and chemical plants located in the adjacent municipal district of Strathcona.

As a result of the bill some industries will have an increase in taxation while others will pay lower taxes, the minister said.

Industries affected by the provincial tax would be exempt from municipal assessment and taxation.

Mr. Hooke said the commission to administer the tax probably would be made up of municipal representatives who now make up the provincial municipal advisory committee.

Between $2,500,000 and $3,000,000 would be collected from the industries, the minister estimated.

The proposed legislation resulted from what has been described by government officials as a "tax imbalance" created by the establishment of industries in the province which will initially come under the act.

Provision is made for the inclusion of additional industries at a later date.

The new tax will apply specifically to oil refineries, petro-chemical plants, nitrogen plants, gas absorption plants, ore refineries, cement and lime plants, caustic soda plants, sulphur works, fertilizer works, sugar beet plants, pulp mills and salt plants.

The bill states the levy of any plant assessed under the scheme will not be more than 60 mills but, said Mr. Hooke, the mill rate is expected to be well below the figure.

Stony Plain MLA, Mrs. Wood, Warns Nations Guard Against Bankruptcy

Mrs. C. R. Wood, MLA for Stony Plain, was a speaker on the March 8 program "Capital Comment" carried over CFRN. The following is her address:

I welcomed the opportunity to enter into the debate on the motion asking the Government of Canada to regard the serious defects in our national economy as emergent, and to devise and adopt monetary policies and techniques to remedy them.

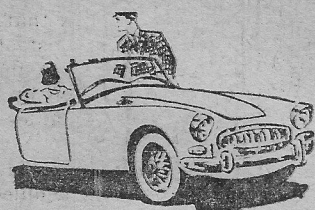

Canada and all countries of the world are using a thieving money system. The governments, instead of using their own credit and giving their people, interest and debt-free money, borrow credit that is just figures in a book and they pay interest on it — creating huge interest-bearing national debt which is now leading the nations into bankruptcy.

The present monetary system used by governments which give services to the people through taxation of them and by borrowing from financial institutions, is an evil power destroying the civilization into which it has been introduced.

Money has a history. Its present false conditions and destructive powers had a development. These are readily seen once money's inherent function is realized.

The power of credit issued so innocently, but foolishly handed over to financial institutions by governments, has created very false conditions, and the inevitable result has been the chaotic state of the world and its economy today. Money and credit should be issued directly by the government, where the British North America Act placed it. Money should be paid out for really earned and created production of wealth and services.

Under a true money and credit system, there would be no inflation nor deflation, but always equated honestly between total production and total consumption.

Prosperity would not depend on foreign trade, nor trade balances. Imports would be welcomed for home consumption. All countries would help, rather than hinder each other. National dividends could be issued to all, so as to distribute justly and generously the great production, and taxation would be progressively reduced.

The Bank of Canada was set up by the Federal Government and charged with a duty to help the people of the nation. If it is not doing it, there is no reason why the Federal Government cannot change its constitution to make it work, or if it is not being administered properly, then the Federal Government should dismiss those in charge and replace them with persons who are capable of making the bank work for the people of Canada.

If the Federal Government that is in office now does not know how to do this, a Social Credit government at Ottawa will know how, and will do it.

Well-Known Alberta Couple Die Within Few Hours Of Each Other

A well-known Alberta couple died within hours of each other last week.

Alex Mitchell, of Lloydminster, prominent Alberta Hereford breeder, died in his home early March 5 and his wife died two hours later. Both deaths are believed due to heart attacks.

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell were born in Scotland and married there following the First World War. He was a sheep-rancher in Scotland and made his first trip to Canada in charge of a Highland cattle consignment to Medicine Hat. He served in the Scottish Horse regiment and later transferred to Lovat's Scouts where he saw service in Egypt.

After the war, Mr. Mitchell began a sheep ranch in Chin, Alta., and later moved to the Battle River area, near Lloydminster where he began his Hereford ranch. He became a director of the Canadian Hereford Association and served as president from 1952. He was also a member of the board of directors of Lloydminster's Agricultural Fair.

The couple are survived by a son, Bill, and a daughter, Nancy of Lloydminster and a sister, Mrs. Mairi Stewart in Scotland.

Prompt Action Saves Tractor

JEAN COTE — Last week the tractor running Mr. Blackburn's sawmill was nearly destroyed by fire. A propane torch had been placed under the tractor while the men waited in the camp. On going outside, one of the men observed flames shooting several feet above the tractor.

He shouted for help and by ripping off the canvas sides and shovelling snow, the crew quickly doused the flames with little damage done to the machine.

Narrow Escape For District Resident

Recently Mrs. Joe Theroux, who lives west of Two Hills, noticed a stray animal with their horses and, on going to bring their mares to the stable, became aware that it was no ordinary horse but a young stallion.

When she attempted to lead the mares to the barn the animal did not take it kindly and charged her with open mouth in an attempt to bite her. She was knocked down and stepped upon and, when able to get to her feet, had received such a severe chest wound that she was unable to call her husband for help. Finally, although the stallion was still standing close by watching her, Mrs. Theroux managed to escape through the fence.

She was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in Vegreville where she was found to have several broken ribs and a multitude of bruises. After several days in the hospital she was allowed to return home.

Truck Levels Gate Upsets Oil House

VILNA — During the night of March 3 Mr. and Mrs. J. Bell were awakened by a loud noise, as if a vehicle had hit the ditch.

They quickly discovered that the mail-truck had not only struck the ditch but, in trying to get out, had knocked their oil house over and a wagon-wheel gate, which had taken years and much thought to build, lay in ruins. A portion of the fence was torn off and parts of the trees were ruined.

The truck had slipped into the ditch and in trying to extricate it the driver did not realize that the box of the vehicle had caused all this damage.

The index of farm prices received by Canadian farmers from the sale of farm products in December fell 2.5 points from the November level to 231.4. This was 6.4 points below the December 1958 level.

Vulcan Rink Takes Legion Crown For Province At Vegreville 'Spiel

The skirl of the bagpipes heralded the opening of the Canadian Legion Provincial Curling Playdowns for the Gooderham and Worts Trophy recently.

President Bill Williams of Taber and Mr. George Sweeney of Gooderham and Worts opened the proceedings with the first rock and the first broom of the two day bonspiel, and from then on it was serious business for the seven rinks entered.

Rinks taking part were from Yellowknife, N.W.T., skipped by Max King; High Prairie, skipped by Al Hardie; Vermilion, skipped by Bill Scales; Fort Saskatchewan skipped by George McIntyre; Red Deer, skipped by Bill Murray; Didsbury, skipped by Cliff Sorenson, and Vulcan skipped by Harris Matlock.

All these rinks had won their zone and district playdowns and were now competing for the honor of representing Alberta in the Dominion Championship to be held in Summerside, P.E.I., from March 14 to 17.

Harris Matlock's rink from Vulcan early began to show signs of being "the tough one" and went on to take the Alberta crown unbeaten. The Northern Trophy presented by Cal's Menswear was won by Bill Scales rink from Vermilion, and the Southern Trophy, presented by McCarra and Stevens was won by Bill Murray's rink from Red Deer. Matlock could not, by Legion rules, take both the Gooderham and Worts trophy as well as the Southern Trophy.

On Saturday evening the rinks were entertained to a banquet given by the Vegreville Chamber of Commerce, and on Sunday evening a banquet was given by the Alberta Provincial Command of the Canadian Legion at which the trophies were presented by Mr. Sweeney and President Bill Williams. Taking the chair at the banquet was Mr. Howell Williams of Edmonton, provincial sports officer, who expressed the hope that the Vulcan rink would bring the Dominion trophy home to Alberta, where Legion curling originated.

Uses Winter Road, Makes Record Trip

THORHILD — David Dziwenka, a teletype mechanic for the Northern Alberta Railways on the Edmonton-McMurray line, completed a trip by car last weekend from McMurray to Thorhild in almost record time.

Mr. Dziwenka, accompanied by a number of passengers and another car, using the winter road through Wabasca, made the distance of 261 miles from McMurray to Slave Lake in less than 10 hours including stops for refueling. The remainder of the trip from Slave Lake to Thorhild, a distance of about 150 miles was completed in a little over three hours after a brief rest at the hotel in Athabasca.

Mr. Dziwenka reported that outside of about 10 miles most of the road from McMurray was in fair condition being kept open by bulldozers of the oil companies and department of forestry.

Mr. Dziwenka also reported that five more cars are scheduled to leave McMurray this weekend.

Rinks Win Prizes

Two rinks from Newbrook took part in the ladies' bonspiel held at Boyle last week. Both rinks, skipped by Mrs. P. Yakimchuk and Mrs. Frank Pisatecky, won prizes.

A bingo was held in the Newbrook Community Hall. The proceeds were used for the library.

The break-in was discovered at 6:30 a.m. Thursday morning by the proprietor George Tomnuk.

Entrance was made by breaking of window at the rear of the garage, and a second inner window was also broken to gain entrance to the show room.

Local police together with the RCMP of the Redwater detachment are investigating.

ABUNDANT LIFE

by ORAL ROBERTS

"GOD SENT US THE RENT CHECK"

The other day I received a letter from an old friend who is now quite wealthy—a very successful businessman. I can really say that "I knew him when!" At one time he was as poor as anybody could be, struggling to make ends meet . . . a far cry from what he is today.

While reading his letter I couldn't help but recall a certain problem that confronted this man in his earlier life, and how God helped him through his trial and on to new heights in the business world.

As a young man in college John was struggling to pay his bills. He was lucky to get to college at all since his family were of poor economic circumstances. His superior mind had enabled him to win some scholarships which helped him financially and made it possible for him to study. However, he had trouble paying his living expenses after paying his tuition.

Like so many of us, John took a wife before he started into college, strongly believing the old adage that "two can live as cheaply as one." As life would have it, John's "two" soon became "three," then "four," and, finally, "five."

John had faith that he would succeed, but he was worried over pressing bills and insufficient income to keep his creditors satisfied.

"One night I began to panic," John told me. "The landlord was hammering me for the rent and I didn't have it. I didn't know where I was going to get it. All I knew was that it was winter and cold outside. We couldn't be turned out with three small children. So, in desperation, I fell to my knees and asked God to help. 'God,' I said, 'somehow, somewhere, please help me to get that rent money. I've just got to have it.'"

"The next morning I got a call from the business manager of the college. He wanted me to come over right away, saying something had 'come up.' I felt sure the landlord had turned me in! I hastened over to the office, dreading to hear the news.

"To my amazement, the business manager told me that a person, wishing to remain anonymous, wanted to help 'sponsor' a deserving college student.

"He told me I was deserving," John said. "I was to get $60 a month, to do whatever I thought best with it."

"God sent me that rent money," John told me. "I was deeply indebted to the anonymous donor on whose heart God laid the burden to help a deserving college student . . . ME. Don't ever tell me God does not answer prayer!"

SPORTSMINDED ALBERTANS will recognize Canada's ski queen, Anne Heggveit, who was honored by her native Ottawa when she returned to that city following her gold medal performance at the Winter Olympics. She has confirmed her earlier decision to retire for good from competitive skiing. Miss Heggveit, shown displaying some of her many medals, has been elected to Canada's Sports Hall of Fame.

Farm Power Among Topics At Zone Meet

Advance registration indicates that about 400 representatives of western electrical utilities will gather in Edmonton March 21-23 for the annual meeting of the Western Zone of the Canadian Electrical Association.

B. C. Fairchild, general manager of the CEA, said that interest in this year's meetings is high, reflecting the general interest in power matters throughout the Western provinces.

The meeting will convene both as a mass conference of utility people to hear experts on such matters as energy demand, rate research and farm electrification, and as a workshop session which will see 18 sections meeting separately on engineering problems in generation, transmission and distribution, and sales problems posed by natural gas and other competitive fuels, and the use of electricity by residential, commercial and industrial customers.

The Canadian Electrical Association is a nation-wide organization of Canada's electrical utilities and manufacturers devoted primarily to the exchange of information, the elevation of engineering and operating utility standards, and the promotion of safe and efficient working practices, resulting in better service to the public.
